Fairer World Lindfield
Climate Café 7.30pm Wednesday 25th May
King Edward Hall, 24 High Street, Lindfield, West Sussex

Bestselling author & activist Isabel Losada will energise us to take climate action.

In this goody-packed event, bestselling author & activist Isabel Losada will waste no time. The way to feel depressed about the planet is to think of all the things that we can't influence.

The way to feel energised is to be fully knowledgeable about all the areas where we can make a difference and implement those enthusiastically. This session will be filled with the methods of application of twenty ways we can EACH make an impact.

Be prepared to be challenged. We don't have time to be faint hearted. We can be radical and joyful environmentalists. Bring a notebook and a pen. Isabel writes and speaks in a way that brings a smile to your face as she engages compassionately and practically about the ways in which we can help the planet.

Sir Mark Rylance said about her book The Joyful Environmentalist, "She gave my spirit a lift and my feet somewhere to stand". Isabella Tree of Knepp Estate said, "A manifesto of brilliant advice offered with humility and good grace". Dr Rowan Williams found the book, "Practical and realistic as well as visionary".

An exciting addition to our evening is a competition to win 10 signed copies of Isabel's' book The Joyful Environmentalist. To win a copy we need you to answer this question and forward it to us by 23rd May at fairerworldlindfield@gmail.com. We will pick the best suggestions and read them out and award the signed books at the event on 25th May.

Just tell us: "What is the most joyful piece of environmentalism you've enjoyed or what you have done that supports the planet and also gives you joy?"

Whilst this event is free to book, we are asking people to make a donation of £5 in cash on the door which will include a glass of wine or soft drink.

Please register by emailing fairerworldlindfield@gmail.com or calling 01444 484063 or via Eventbrite here.